- Supports normal skin barrier functions to help keep the skin hydrated.
- Helps soothe minor skin irritations

Why should I use baby lotion?

Appropriate hydration is important for normal skin health. Because a baby's skin is thinner than our own, it can lose water more quickly. Bathing and changes in the weather, especially the winter cold, can also dry out a baby's skin. Using a baby lotion can help keep baby's skin properly hydrated and smooth.

When should baby lotion be applied?

Lotion can be applied after the bath or at any time of the day, but most people prefer to use lotion after a bath to lock in moisture. If you are bathing your baby once or twice a week, lotion can be applied whenever you choose or feel it necessary.
